

Position for senior veterinary medical oncologist

The AniCura group is specialized in the veterinary care of small animals with many leading veterinary clinic and practices. We treat more than 3 million patients at more than 300 institutions located Europe.

The AniCura Animal Oncology and Imaging (AOI) Center is a unique and highly specialized veterinary center. It is equipped with the most modern technology and is centrally located within Switzerland in the canton of Zug.

We offer services in oncology (radiation oncology, medical oncology, photodynamic therapy, electrochemotherapy, immune therapy) and diagnostic imaging (digital radiography, ultrasound, computed tomography, magnetic resonance imaging (MRI))
Our qualified, efficient and friendly services are highly appreciated by clients from all over Europe.

We are looking for a senior veterinary medical oncologist full-time or part-time.
Starting date is the 1st of November or as agreed upon.

We offer:

- A secure working environment, where you can pursue your passion of helping animals alongside the most modern technology and diagnostic possibilities
- The possibility of participating in the development of strategic processes and design of the AniCura AOI Center
- Involvement in interdisciplinary projects
- Individual ongoing education to promote your practical, work-related or personal skills
- A competitive and attractive salary and benefits package
- A welcoming and dynamic team
- The advantages and career possibilities of the AniCura group paired with the advantages of a local and personal veterinary clinic

Your profile:

- Specialist education in medical oncology (ECVIM (Oncology) / ACVIM (Oncology)- board certification or board eligibility, or equivalent education and experience)
- Open and friendly attitude towards clients, patients and team members
- Strong interest to expand existing knowledge and to achieve the highest possible standard for therapies offered to our clients
- Interest in teaching and training colleagues
- The official language in the canton of Zug is German but French- and Italian- speaking candidates are also highly welcome to apply
- English is a benefit

If you are interested in this position or you know somebody, who would be interested in this position we are happy to hear from you!

For further information please contact Andrea Sumova at andrea.sumova@anicura.ch
Tel +41 41 783 07 77

